

From the Chair

It never fails to amaze me how quickly the year flies by and once again the leaves are falling, the nights are drawing in and winter is around the corner. The conference season was in full swing when I travelled to Nottingham where the National U3A AGM was held at the modern, swish, East Midlands Centre.

It was certainly a packed programme with four professors including Heinz Wolff, who is now Emeritus Professor of Bioengineering at Brunel University. Do you remember him? He always wears flamboyant bow ties, speaks with a pronounced foreign accent and appeared very often on our tellies in the 1960's and 70's. His lecture was entitled "Anybody Want to go to Mars?" and it was a humorous but highly factual thesis that told us the Martian day is twice as long as ours and that there are only two distinct seasons, summer and winter. He concluded that missions to Mars are practical and feasible from the Moon but the journey is only one way with no return ticket for the brave soul that will eventually take it on.

Also present was Baroness Estelle Morris who gave a very eloquent speech reiterating our mantra that we are all teachers, students and learners all our lives. We were told how important organisations like the U3A are because in this specialised age we seem to have lost the links to learning outside of educational institutions. She finished in a pensive mood admitting that "politics moves pieces; education changes lives."

I also went to two seminars: a meeting of the Yorkshire and the Humber Region and the AGM where Ian Searle, U3A's chairman, was voted in for a further year. Currently, there are 820 U3As with just over 272,000 members. Membership has increased by 22,000 (8.6%) since January 2011 and it is anticipated to grow to 300,000 during 2012 and to 500,000 by 2020. Because of demography and the changing of retirement ages, the male/female ratio is likely to change over the next 10 years from 37/63 to 45/55 making it much more evenly balanced than it is at present.

Another keynote speech was that of Eric Midwinter. Eric had, along with Michael Young and Peter Lazlett, founded the U3A nearly thirty years ago and he had seen it grow from a germ of an idea to the successful organisation it is today. Some of his more memorable observations I have listed below.

- Old age or later life should be a long, beautifully written, last paragraph not a hastily scribbled note.
- Every U3A is different from other U3As and every U3A is the same as other U3As.
- I am an older person not a social casualty and I am forming my own destiny.
- U3A is very good for people for whom U3A is very good.

It was a witty, articulate presentation and I am pleased to say that we have managed to secure Eric to speak on comedy - especially the genius of those two British institutions, Morecambe and Wise - at The Showroom Cinema in April 2012.

One of my most embarrassing moments this year happened at The Showroom. I am sure some of you remember a lecture on the History of Linguistics back in January. People were piling into the auditorium and they kept on coming and coming. Every seat was taken and members were still queuing outside to get in. We asked the management for the bigger cinema but it was in use as they had put on an extra showing of The King's Speech owing to its popularity. Well, we are in the process of engaging Professor Andrew Linn again, along with the bigger cinema, so this time you should all get in. Remember these lectures are free and open to everyone. We have some excellent speakers lined up for 2012 on topics from A History of the Fairground to The Spanish Civil War so please look in LINKS or on the website so you do not miss out. (Keep your eye on September – it may surprise you!!)

We have had many requests to have events on Saturdays and Sundays so "Weekenders" is another new, open Group beginning in January. There will be a dedicated page in LINKS and online to keep you informed about what is coming up. Also new next year are two special study days. The first is in February at the Weston Park Museum on China and the second in April at the Millennium Galleries. This will be on "Art and the Family" presented by Barbara Morden in conjunction with the concurrent art exhibition.

Finally, during that brief but magical "Indian summer" we had in late September, I visited Whirlow Brook Park for the Commemorative Garden's open day. The plot by the pond is looking wonderful with much under-planting of bulbs such as hellebores, snowdrops, crocus and cyclamen along with primroses, so it should be quite a sight in the spring. The Lord Mayor of Sheffield, Sylvia Dunkley, came and admired all the hard work the gardening Group had done. She admitted to having a soft spot for this park as she visited it often when her children were small and confessed to their having made dens in the bushes and trees. One of our members, Mary Mac, a talented artist, gave the Lord Mayor a picture she had painted of the lily pond in its heyday to commemorate the visit. Mary has also kindly donated another of her colourful artworks to raffle for funds for the Group. Tickets for this raffle can be purchased at most of our open venues.

The next LINKS to land on your doormat will be early in 2012. So, may I thank you all for your support in what has been a splendid and successful Jubilee year, and may I wish you all the warmest of Season's Greetings and good health and happiness for the year ahead.

Obituary

Tony Marsh

Tony died suddenly early in September. As you can imagine, it was a great shock to his family and those who knew him.

Tony was on the Executive Committee about 10 years ago and was the first webmaster, successfully setting up SU3A's first website.

He had also been in Digital Photography and, as a keen walker, joined F, J and D Groups, the original Dippers and latterly was a keen supporter of G Group.

SU3A and the U3A movement generally provided him with a rich social life and stimulation to go on learning, especially his IT skills in which he was entirely self-taught.

Membership Renewal

Yes, it is that time of the year again! The subscription remains at £10.00 per person, per year. Also, if you have not yet signed up for Gift Aid, please complete the section at the bottom of the Membership Renewal form which explains how it works (page 6).

Lecture Series

As mentioned in "From the Chair", there is an exciting programme planned for 2012, with something to interest everyone.

Whirlow Brook Park SU3A Commemorative Garden

Whilst this was originally set up as a project for the Silver Jubilee, the Group who have been working so hard to make our part of the garden so attractive have decided to continue with its ongoing development and maintenance. So, if you wish, you can always make a donation in memory of someone close to you.

Just contact Alison Cowper for a donation form, either by phone on (0114) 274 6165,

New Groups

As indicated in the last LINKS, the centre pages will appear in February, June and October. New Groups will in future be indicated in italics and this will also apply on the website.

Notice of Annual General Meeting

The Annual General Meeting will take place on the morning of Wednesday 18 April 2012 and a draft agenda will be in the February 2012 LINKS. Whilst you have the opportunity to bring up any issues throughout the year via your Executive Committee, the AGM is very important to all members so please make a note in your diary. Our former Regional Trustee, Anne Firth, came to the end of her term of office at the U3A AGM and our thanks go to her for her sterling work on behalf of the Yorkshire and the Humber Region. As we normally invite our Regional Trustee to the AGM, we have invited our new Trustee, David Morton, to come along and introduce himself.

Askham Bryan event

Following a letter sent out to all Coordinators by Jim Walker, just two Groups have indicated they would like to take part in the celebrations in August 2012. With the huge success of the Wortley Hall Silver Jubilee event, surely more of our Groups would like to 'show what they do' at Askham Bryan? So, please, Coordinators think again and encourage your members to take part.

The last event in 2007 was greatly enjoyed by those members who attended.

Data Protection

This subject was brought up at the Coordinators Meeting and again at the Executive Committee. Please be aware of how important this is. There is an Advice Sheet on our website, or you can contact your Secretary for a paper copy. One thing to remember is that when you send out Group emails, please bear in mind that not everyone wants to know everyone else's email address, so it might be wiser to 'BCC' (blind copy, for those who do not know the jargon) rather than 'CC' your contacts to ensure everyone's privacy.

Lastly, the Executive Committee wish all members a very Happy Christmas and a healthy, peaceful 2012.

Date of the next Executive Committee meeting is 6 January 2012.

Your New Membership Number for 2012

From next year, all those who have provided email addresses will receive their new membership number by email and no longer in the post. Therefore it is vital that you ensure that the email address you have provided is correct and legible. If for any reason you would prefer not receive your number by email, you must let me know.

The main reason for the change is to save both time and money. Also you will get your new number more quickly but, please remember, save it somewhere safe!

Study day: Exploring China

Weston Park Museum,

Thursday 23 February 2012 10 am. – 4 pm

The study day takes advantage of a new exhibition from the British Museum which delves into China's rich past to tell the story of thousands of years of innovation through priceless, awe-inspiring objects.

Exploring themes such as food and drink, festivals and beliefs, technology and play, China: Journey to the East will shed light on the intricacies of Chinese culture. Visitors will see the forerunner of today's calculator, the Chinese abacus, 1300 year old jam tarts, examples of the first porcelain, 'oracle bones' inscribed with early Chinese writing, and much more.

Museum staff will brief us beforehand on how to make the most of our visit. There will also be workshops on Chinese language and arts and crafts run by the Confucius Institute.

Places are limited. Tickets cost £4.00 and can be obtained via the booking form on page 25. Please note, no tickets will be sent out between 12 December and 11 January.

Reading Sheffield

Over 70 and willing to talk about books you read as a young adult in Sheffield in 1945 – 1965?

We especially would like to interview people who live in the North or East of the city.

Where did you get your books?

Did you buy or borrow them?

Did you get them as presents?

Or as an award from Sunday school?

Did any particular book or books change your life?

Reading Sheffield is hoping to discover how reading for pleasure was fostered during this period. The project is run by a group of local people working with Sheffield Hallam University and Sheffield City Libraries.

If SU3A members would like to be interviewed would they please contact Mary Grover on (0114) 263 0691,

Lunch and Lecture

Friday 16 March 2012

Their books were favourites of their day and they lived in Ecclesfield in the nineteenth century. Professor Melvin Jones and his wife Joan have researched widely on the West Riding's own 'Brontë' family. Come and dine with us and listen to this fascinating illustrated talk. You will be amazed at the story of this multi-talented Victorian family.

Details and an application form will be in the February 2012 edition of Links.

Run Away With the Circus!

Feel like you need to add some excitement to your life?

Does it all feel a bit humdrum?

Well why not join the circus?

No really, we mean it.

Greentop Community Circus of Sheffield, one of the UK's longest established circus schools, is looking for volunteers to get involved in its events and shows and THEY WANT YOU!

They are looking for people to get involved from all walks of life no matter what your background, age or ability. The roles include: helping with the monthly shows and cabarets, front of house, marketing and promotions, props and set making, bar and café staff, office support, fund raising and business development. Also, if you have worked in variety or theatre, play an instrument, have an act or otherwise perform, then they are keen to get you on board.

Greentop is an inclusive, friendly, animal-free circus space that welcomes everybody. There are already loads of kids, mums, dads, students, performers, musicians and artists involved and they want to welcome you into their circus family as well.

If you want to know more, call (0114) 244 8828 or see the website www.greentop.org for further information about Greentop and its services.

Donations for the SU3A Commemorative Garden

Some members have asked if they can donate towards a shrub as a Christmas present for a friend. This is possible and if desired we can produce a suitably inscribed Gift Card. Please contact Alison Cowper on (0114) 274 6165.

The Garden continues to develop. By the time you read this the Group should have planted another 20 shrubs/trees and a large inscribed boulder will mark the pond-side entrance to the Garden. Work on tidying the site will continue throughout the winter (weather permitting!).

New members will be welcomed

A reminder about members' insurance cover

Every member of SU3A should have a copy of "Insurance Cover for U3A Members". If required, a further copy may be obtained from the General Coordinator or the document may also be seen on the SU3A website.

This is an important document which explains who is covered by the insurance and who is not covered. Please familiarise yourself with the conditions under which visitors are permitted to join a Group, and the consequences, to all members of the Group, of allowing visitors to exceed their permitted number of visits.

The insurance is arranged centrally by the Third Age Trust and any specific enquiries regarding insurance cover should be addressed to the Company Secretary, Lin Jonas, on (0208) 466 6139,

Racketball

Racketball is a gentle form of squash played with a short handled racket and a bouncy rubber ball on a squash court. It is a game favoured by players of a certain age, easy to learn and fun to play. Played inside, it is independent of light and weather and provides as much exercise as the participant wishes to expend.

This note is to invite expressions of interest in setting up a racketball Group for U3A members, both beginners and improvers. The location would be Abbeydale Park Rackets and Fitness club (S17 3LJ), where both courts and equipment are available. The suggested time is Monday morning, but this could be varied based on feedback of interest.

Advanced German Group

The Advanced German Group, which meets every second Tuesday afternoon in members' houses, would welcome some new members of at least A Level standard.

We generally have a brief discussion (preferably in German) of topical items, personal stories or a set theme followed by translation into English of a text selected by a member. Texts range from book extracts to media articles. Points of grammar, language and content are discussed as we go along. However, the agenda is very much set by members and hence flexible. Two native speakers are on hand to help.

Jesus/Christianity Today

At a SU3A Drop-In some months ago I found several members who expressed interest in having a Group to look at the present post-Christian world and ask if there are new ways in which we might salvage what was good about Jesus, or find new insights from the Gospels.

I have written books called "Secular Christ", "Radical Jesus" and "Discipleship" and would love to share some of this with others. Contact details: John Vincent, (0114) 243 6688, Sustainable Development

"Sustainable Development? What do they do? It does not sound much fun."

Well, judge for yourself from what we have been doing lately.

In October we went to Ryton Gardens, the home of the charity Garden Organic, which has been extolling the benefits of gardening by feeding the soil naturally year after year rather than giving plants a quick chemical fix since the days when it was the height of eccentricity.

Alongside the expected displays of composting and related activities we found the less predictable, such as a garden visualising the ideas behind biodynamic horticulture, which take organic principles a stage further, and an indoor 'Vegetable Kingdom' exhibition area for younger visitors in particular. This was a vivid way of illustrating why vegetables are important to our diet and even what they look like growing in the ground (knowledge that can no longer be taken for granted). The Gardens gave us a pleasant day out in a beautiful setting, with or without the organic messages.

A week or so later we were in the very different setting of Sheffield's Energy Recovery Facility (a.k.a Bernard Road incinerator) seeing how the 'rubbish' from our wheelie bins goes into the National Grid rather than a hole in the ground. We were impressed by the way nothing is wasted if it can possibly be avoided. Heat from burning the rubbish, for example, creates steam to generate electricity; then the steam is condensed back to water and used again. Metal in the ash is reclaimed for scrap (which could quite possibly be recycled in a car) and the ash itself goes into aggregate (which could become the road the car drives on).

Only the dust filtered from the flue gases fails to find a useful job and is sent for safe disposal. If you have to incinerate - and the current wisdom is that sometimes it is the best way – Sheffield is apparently doing it better than most.

We rounded off our tour by climbing aboard a refuse collection vehicle (OK, bin lorry – even the professionals call it that) and did we mention we had lunch beforehand? In fact we nearly always have lunch – and tea too, if we can manage it. More fun than you thought, you see. Why not join us and find that out for yourself?

The Scottish Highlands Holiday in September

The tail-end of a Caribbean hurricane was forecast to interfere with our trip to Scotland so we drove North looking over our shoulders. In the event, we had some rain most days but were told Sheffield suffered more!

The Cairngorms were stunning. Even in the gloom of rain clouds marching overhead their majesty was unforgettable. These mountains are Cambrian and Devonian in origin, formed from ancient granites. Having left Sheffield at sevenish we arrived at our destination in the Spey valley about 5.30 p.m. The Nethybridge Hotel has an ancient 3-passenger cage lift serving three floors each with a gate. If a gate on any floor is not securely closed the mechanism refuses to move and travellers have to call for someone on another floor to check the doors. (A contretemps with the lift lead me one morning to suffer the ignominy of arriving late for the departure of the bus ... the shame of it).

The program was full of interest. Our first day included a visit to the Highland Folk Museum in Newtownmuir. The Folk Museum included a recreation of a 1700 township with turf houses roofed with heather and open peat fires but no chimneys only a hole in the roof. There were spaces for cattle in some of the crofts. Another recreation was a 1930's croft with animals and farm machinery and a 1930's tin-walled school. Whenever I visit such places I am slightly uneasy that my personal recollections are not so very different when it comes to desks and slates and inkwells and maps of Empire ... but then a U3A Group may well be a piece of living history to be visited one day soon.

Nic Bullivant

a Ranger step-son of Margaret Bullivant, who urged her to organise this trip) gave some of us lifts to the more distant parts of the Folk Museum (for which our gratitude).

A visit to the 16th century Ballindalloch Castle in the afternoon was a striking contrast to the crofters' village. The Lairds of Ballindalloch, the Macpherson-Grants, have lived in the castle

On Tuesday we had an hour's drive to the Rangers Base where we were met again by Nic Bullivant. He gave an illustrated talk about the Cairngorms and the work of the Rangers who are crucial to environmental protection and to the safety of the thousands of visitors to the National Park. The Cairngorms funicular railway allowed us to ride to the centre near the summit of the mountain. Walking outside around the centre was discouraged due to wind and rain but there were well placed viewing platforms and the views across the mountains were splendid. Our return included, for the more intrepid among us, a walk through the rain to Glenmore Forest Park on the shores of Loch Morlich.

A quick ride to the Caledonian Canal and on into Loch Ness gave us a boat trip to Drumnadrochit, a three hour round trip, time to ponder the order of things and the fate of small people against the canvas of large events.

The final day dawned bright for our visit to the Highland Wildlife Park. One of the Education Officers boarded our coach at the entrance and gave us a commentary about the Park which specializes in Scotland's native species and endangered species from elsewhere in the tundra regions. The Lynx were exciting as were the Amur tigers. For once we were blessed with warm sunshine and could walk about the pedestrian section of the reserve in comfort and sit outside to eat lunch watching the monkeys having theirs.

Our last visit was to Dalwhinnie Distillery. In years past cattle drovers from the West and North would meet here (Dalwhinnie in Gaelic means "the meeting place"). I think the unfamiliar benediction of the Sun is the only explanation for two bottles of the gentle spirit of the glen being found in our luggage on the last night.

The journey back to Sheffield posed problems for our driver Jim. An accident caused a major diversion and Friday night congestion compounded the difficulties. The ever reliable Jim left the Motorway and found rather less congested roads taking us to a pleasant stop at Thirsk. We left Nethybridge at 8 am. and arrived back in Sheffield at about 8.30 pm.

Classical Concertgoers' Concert

Our first visit in 2012 is to the De Montfort Hall Leicester on Wednesday 14 March for a concert to be given by the Philharmonia Orchestra, directed by the celebrated Finnish conductor Esa-Pekka Salonen with Antti Siirala (piano).

The programme includes Beethoven's Overture "King Stephen", his majestic Symphony No. 3, "Eroica" and Schuman's Piano Concerto.

The cost is £28.00 per person and bookings may be made using the reply slip on page 25. Please include the full names and contact numbers of all members for whom you are applying and send as soon as possible, with a small stamped addressed envelope, to Derek Shipley, 40 Wollaton Avenue, Sheffield, S17 4LA. The coach will leave the bus parking bay on Ecclesall Road South, near the top of Millhouses Lane, promptly at 4.45 pm

Our visits are open to all SU3A members. No special Group membership is required.

For Your Diary: Saturday 2 June 2012: Concert of Handel's Royal Music, to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of H.M. the Queen, at the Symphony Hall Birmingham, with The Academy of Ancient Music and Choir, directed by Richard Egarr.

Royal Air Force Museum Cosford and Moseley Old Hall, Wolverhampton

Wednesday 21 March 2012

Set in scenic Shropshire, the Royal Air Force Museum invites visitors to explore the history of the RAF from its beginnings up to its present day role. There are displays of over 70 aircraft ranging from the earliest Spitfire and other wartime planes, including Allied and enemy ones, up to the modern missile and air transport machines. There is also a special display on the significant part played by the RAF during the Cold War. You will also be able to have fun with various "hands on" activities.

In short there is plenty for everyone to enjoy.

We will have lunch in the Refuel Restaurant. It will be a 2-course meal of Steak and Ale Pie, Rhubarb Crumble and Tea or Coffee. The vegetarian option is Vegetable Lasagne. Please tick your choice on the booking slip on page 27.

In the afternoon we will visit nearby Moseley Old Hall (National Trust). Its story is one of the most exciting and romantic in English history.

The house is famous for sheltering the young King Charles II after the disastrous defeat at the battle of Worcester in 1651. We can follow the story of the King's dramatic escape from Cromwell's troops and find out about 17th century domestic life.

The garden has varieties of plants in keeping with the period and has a striking knot garden and a walled garden.

The cost of the day is £18.00 for N.T. members and £24.00 for non-members. This includes travel, gratuities, admissions and lunch.

To reserve a place, please complete the booking slip on page 27 (remember to tick the lunch option!) and send it with a cheque and a small stamped addressed envelope as soon as possible to Barbara Robertshaw, 20 Whinfell Court, Sheffield S11 9QA.

Lancaster

17 - 21 September 2012

The short break in September next year will be based in Lancaster on the River Lune and near to seaside resorts and the southern Lake District.

We will break our journey from Sheffield with a visit to Rufford Old Hall, near Ormskirk. This is one of Lancashire's finest Tudor buildings where a young William Shakespeare once performed for Sir Thomas Hesketh and his guests. The Hall has a fine collection of furniture, tapestries, arms and armour. There is a woodland walk by the canal and topiary and sculpture in the gardens.

The Hall is a National Trust property so entry is free to NT card holders and non-members will pay £6.30 on the day.

On our second day we will have a Blue Badge Guide for a tour of the City, by coach and on foot. In the afternoon we will take tea in Morecambe at the splendidly refurbished Art Deco Midland Hotel with its stylish Eric Gill art work.

Day three takes us to "Blackwell" - the most important and the largest surviving early example of work by the architect Mackay Hugh Bailey Scott. This 1890's Arts and Crafts House has fine examples of the decorative arts of the period. After lunch we take the boat from Bowness across Windermere to Lakeside for a visit to Stott Park Bobbin Mill - built in 1835 to produce the wooden bobbins vital to the Lancashire spinning and weaving industries.

On the penultimate day of this holiday we may have a "Brief Encounter" at Carnforth Station, followed by a visit to Leighton Hall - home of the famous furniture-making Gillow dynasty. After our early evening meal a coach will take us to see the famous Blackpool Illuminations.

On our homeward journey we will visit the Queen Street Mill Textile Museum near Burnley. This is the world's last nineteenth century steam-powered weaving mill and is highly commended by the Association for Industrial Archaeology. Continued on page 26...

Deputy Editor of Links

The Editor, John Williams, will be standing down at the next AGM, his place being taken by Jenny Emby. It is time to commence the process of appointing a new Deputy Editor.

The role of the Deputy Editor is to shadow the Editor for a period before ultimately taking over the role.

Those interested should be reasonably conversant with the use of the Internet, email and Microsoft Word. Training can be given in the use of Microsoft Publisher (which has many similarities with Word), the software currently used (and provided by SU3A).

If you are interested in hearing more about this post, please contact the Editor, or the present Deputy Editor.

On a recent U3A day trip, we visited the splendid Swaledale Museum in Reeth, Yorkshire. The Curator read us a 'Proposal of Marriage' letter written in 1866 which delighted us all. I am most grateful to her for permission to publish it. I hope you enjoy it.

A Proposal of Marriage 1866

My Dere Miss,

I now take hup my pen tow rite yow open feelines will find yow well as it leaves me at present. Yow will praps be supprised that I should maik soa bolde as tow rite to yow who is sutch a ladi and I hop that yow will not bee vex at mee for it. I hardly dare say wat I want I ham so timid about ladis and mi and trimmels like a lespin lefe. I am a farmar in a small wai and mi age is rayther more than 40 year and mi mother lives with me and keeps mi ouse and shee as been very pourley laitley and cannot stur about mutch and I think I shud be comfutable with a wife. I have had mi I on yow a long time and I think that yow are a very nice young wumman and one that wud make me appi if only yow think soa. We ave a nice parlor down stares with a blu carpet and a huven on one side of the fire plaice and the old woman on the uther smoaking. The golden 'rules claimed up on the walls abuv the long settle and yow cud sit awl the day in the ezy chare and nit and mend my kirtles and leggings and yow cud maik the tee reddy again I cum in.

So I hop to hear from yow as I am in desprit and yurnist and will marrie yow at mai day or if my mother dees afore Ise want yow afore if only yow will except of mi. And mi dere we cud be vein appi to gedder and I oap you will let me now yowr mind by return of poast and iff yow are faverable I wil cum up to the scratch. Soa noa moor at preasant from your well wisher and tru luvve.

Pea hes. I hop yow will sai nothing about this if yow will not except of mi as I have anuther very nice wumman in mind and I think I shall marrie her if you do no except of mi but I thought you wud suite mi mother better — the same venerable specimen of the female biped (excuse me but this is our skule masters remark and hes a clever man) being very crusty at times, so I tell yow before yow cum She will be maister.
